Message from the President

On behalf of Habitat International Coalition I would like to thank our members, allies and offices for the restless and committed work they have undertaken during this year to move forward in the defense, promotion and realization of the right of every person to a safe place to live in peace and with dignity. I feel honored to have the privilege to share dreams and daily struggles with you all and I am thankful for the trust that you deposited in my renewed mandate until 2019.

From its origins, our Coalition has been aware of the relevance of coordinating local and national actions with regional and global presence. Our two-leg strategy seeks to strengthen the social actors and processes, while it aims to influence medium and long-term changes through advocacy efforts in public policy, legal framework and international agendas.

In the following pages you will find a synthetic report of the many activities in which HIC has been engaged during this year. From the rights of homeless people and the assessment of impacts of forced evictions and displacements in India, the preparation of reports on housing and water privatization in Lebanon and Sudan, to the civil war, the transitional justice and the land reparation in Yemen; through the Palestinian people's right to remain and the demand for greater international intervention to stop and compensate the violation of their rights.

At the same time, more details are available on the mapping of integral and transformative experiences on social production and management of habitat in Latin America and Europe, as well as about HIC engagement in the global convergences of struggles for land and water, food sovereignty and food security and the right to the city in the World Social Forum and other international spaces'.

In the context of the process towards Habitat III (October 2016), HIC and its members have actively participated at different preparatory events, bringing approaches and experiences to the debates and declarations, as well as providing critical analysis of the official documents and supporting the elaboration of civil society reports to highlight contradictions and missing issues.

HIC messages around the need to evaluate the implementation of the Habitat Agenda commitments approved in Istanbul in 1996, -Including the regulation of the real state and land markets, the promotion of integrated systems of diverse tenure arrangements, the defense of the commons and of the participatory democracy-, have been undertaken by several other actors during the discussion of the contents for the agenda of the upcoming two decades.

As happened in Vancouver almost forty years ago, our network will be participating not only at the official conference but also at the alternative and self-organized forums that social organizations and academic and professional institutions are promoting in Quito.

We count upon you to keep working together for a more just and solidary world!

Fraternally,

Lorena Zárate HIC President

The Coalition

Habitat International Coalition (HIC) is the global network dedicated to action for the recognition, defense and full implementation of the right of everyone to a secure place in which to live in peace and dignity, in all countries.

Specifically, HIC acts as an international collective of civil society organizations, social movements and individuals that mobilizes and promotion advocates in defense. and enforceability of the human rights of homeless, evicted, displaced, landless and inadequately housed people and communities, including those under occupation, in urban and rural areas. HIC seeks to empower people and communities to improve their living conditions based on the principles, norms and standards of human rights, diversity, gender equality, social production and environmental sustainability. HIC promotes public awareness about habitat issues and serves as a platform for the formulation of programs, policies and strategies for constituent social movements and civil society organizations working to promote the human rights to housing, land, and the city, and acts as their representative to public, national, regional and international bodies and forums.

The Association aims to attain these objectives by means of:

(a) Mobilizing and advocating, independently or in co-operation, with other civil society entities, grassroots and popular organizations, social movements, independent institutions, academic networks, and activist platforms;

(b) Organizing forums, seminars and conferences, lectures, public hearings, and exchange visits;

(c) Publishing statements, reports, newsletters, and other studies and informative materials;

(d) Conducting research and fact-finding missions to document human rights related to Habitat violations and positive experiences;

(e) Supporting and strengthening networks and promoting information exchanges among its members and other civil society entities;

(f) Conducting training, human rights education and other activities to build capabilities of constituent members and affiliates; and

(g) Any other activities compatible with these objectives.

HIC in the World

The Coalition has 393 Members (of which 52 have the right to vote) and 61 Friends. In addition 1,176 organizations and individuals form the HIC social base. The table below presents the geographic distribution of HIC Members, Friends and the Social Base:

Structures' Reports

HIC is composed of a variety of organizations sharing a common mission and is enriched by a variety of realities, methods and cultures. The interconnection of such a vast diversity poses a challenge when trying to establish coordinated activities within the Coalition; but this diversity is what strengthens our actions as a whole.

HIC President Report

During 2015, the most relevant activities undertaken by HIC president included Lorena's participation at institutional meetings: the formulation and implementation of international projects; representing our Coalition at public and academic events; organizing planning, training and exchange meetings with members and allies; writing articles for publications in Spanish and giving media interviews: English: and participating in meetings with national and local authorities, as well as with different UN agencies and other regional and multilateral institutions.

Our president was actively involved in the preparation and coordination of HIC annual Board and General Assembly meetings, held in Tunisia (March) at the occasion of the World Social Forum, and in training and networking events on the right to the city and social production of habitat in that framework.

At the same time, since the beginning of the year, the preparatory process towards the 3rd UN Conference on Human Settlements, Housing and Sustainable Urban Development (Habitat III) grew in intensity, with several meetings and materials. On her role, Lorena took active part in the ad hoc working group created with HIC members, staff and allies, as well as in the promotion and coordination of collective actions inside the Global Platform for the Right to the City (see global activities).

Among the most relevant preparatory events at which she participated, it is worth mentioning:

a) National Forum (Mexico City, January), where the draft of the official national report was presented by the Mexican government and discussed altogether with social movements, academics, professionals and public servants.

b) International Workshop organized by United Cities and Local Governments-UCLG (Barcelona, March), aiming to build a common narrative around the right to the city and other related issues towards Habitat III and beyond.

c) International Summit of Local Governments for the Right to the City<sup>1</sup> (Mexico City, April), organized by the Mexico City Government and the UCLG Commission on Social Inclusion, Participatory Democracy and Human Rights with the attendance of around 3,000 people from different sectors and countries. The final declaration makes an explicit call to national states for the recognition of the right to the city as an alternative to the predominant discourse based on 'competitivity', and asks for concrete goals, indicators and tools to guarantee its implementation at local, national and global level.

d) International Forum on the Right to the City Towards Habitat III (Mexico City, April)<sup>2</sup>, held at the occasion of COPEVI's 50th anniversary. Issues as right to the city and protection of the territory; citizenship and participatory democracy; social movements, local governments and popular education were covered. Around 200 people from different countries were present.

e) Il Latin American and Caribbean Forum on Adequate Housing (Monterrey, May)<sup>3</sup>, Habitat for Humanity initiative, with the support of UN-Habitat, International Red Cross and Red Crescent Federations, Inter-American Development Bank and Cities Alliance. More than 500 participants from social, academic, public and private sector from 28 countries, including Ministers and other housing and urban development Authorities from eight LA countries, UN agencies and multilateral institutions took part. The discussions focused on making specific recommendations to be included in the New Urban Agenda draft.

f) Habitat III official thematic meeting on Metropolitan Areas (Montreal, October)<sup>4</sup>, organized by the Montreal metropolitan government and the UN system, with the participation of more than 200 people representing local governments, academies and civil society organizations from different North and Latin American, African, Asian and European countries. The final declaration includes proposals made by HIC and the Global Platform for the Right to the City.

g) Presentation of the Report of the Special Rapporteur on the Right to Adequate Housing at the UN General Assembly, (New York City, October)<sup>5</sup>. Leilani Farha's report specially addresses the right to adequate housing in cities and its close linkages with the broad range of issues that will be examined at Habitat III. It includes recommendations for an urban rights agenda, by advancing in: (a) homelessness eliminating and forced evictions; (b) ensuring security of tenure for all households; (c) ensuring the incorporation of the right to housing as paramount in all urban law, policy and programmes, including fiscal policy and resource allocation.

h) Urban Thinkers Campus on Housing in the City We Need (Barcelona, November)<sup>6</sup>, supported by the Barcelona Metropolitan Area and co-organized by Habitat Professionals Forum, the Inter-American Federation of Urbanists, the European Council of Urbanists, the Spanish Association of Urbanists and the Observatori DESC. The report includes many of HIC contributions on human rights, housing and land policies, social production of habitat and more.

i) International Seminar From COP 21 to Habitat III – Local Governments and Citizens at the Heart of the Challenges and Roundtable on Ecological Transition and Right to the City (Paris, December)<sup>7</sup>, organized by the UCLG Commission on Social Inclusion, Participatory Democracy and Human Rights, with the support of HIC and the Global Platform for the Right to the City, with the participation of more than 400 people from different countries.

Besides these activities, during this period Lorena also participated at public events, presentations and debates on issues linked with the right to the city, the so-called new urban agenda and Habitat III at universities in Canada, France, Mexico, South Korea and USA.

At the same time, she contributed with essays for the electronic publication The Just City<sup>8</sup> and the blog The Nature of Cities<sup>9</sup>. She provided inputs and review for the report elaborated by the Bartlet Development Planning Unit at the University College of London about the right to the city and the role of the civil society in the preparation of national reports towards Habitat III<sup>10</sup>.

Finally, and as part as her work to support HIC-AL office, Lorena also contributed with the elaboration of a regional report on human settlements and economic, social and cultural rights for the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (Washington, March); the coordination of the 9th Training Edition for Mexican and Latin American social organizations on housing cooperatives, social production of habitat and the right to the city (Mexico City, August); the meeting of the Latin American Working Group on Social Production of Habitat (Mexico City, September); and the ToR and workshops for conducting an external evaluation of HIC-AL.

In this context, we would like to highlight her role in organizing a Tribute to Enrique Ortiz<sup>11</sup> (Mexico City, April) at the occasion of his professional trajectory 50th anniversary, held in the framework of the International Forum on the Right to the City Towards Habitat III. More than 200 people attend the emotional and colourful event.

HIC in Latin America and the Caribbean

During the year, the HIC-AL members and affiliated organizations concentrated on processes related to the Coalition's work and on reform initiatives related to the United Nations Conference on Housing and Sustainable Development (Habitat III).

Among the main regional activities were participation in a March 2015 hearing before the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR) and presentation of a report on precarious human settlements and economic, social and cultural rights (ESCR). The report was elaborated in cooperation with Argentinian organizations and the two endorsement of more than 29 NGOs and social movements from seven countries. The main objective was to include the right to adequate housing, the right to the city and existing alternatives among concerns of the recently adopted Commission's ESCR Unit.<sup>12</sup> The document was also shared with Habitat III Secretary and the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), the two organisms responsible for drafting the regional report prior to this Conference.

HIC's regional Working Group on Social Production of Habitat (PSH) coordinated efforts to highlight transformative experiences and identify more-efficient tools to enable SPH development at scale. The Working Group prepared a framework for systematizing transformational cases that 18 organizations and social movements from nine countries in the region put to use. The first group meeting took place in September in Mexico, during which popular committees<sup>13</sup> were created to prepare for Habitat III with the objective of giving voice to the people usually excluded such big events.

In capacity development, the Central American Federation of Self-managed and Solidarity Housing (COCEAVIS, in Spanish) delivered the first module of the regional school of cooperatives training, which took place in Mexico with organizations participating from several countries.

HIC-AL also co-organized the second Latin American and Caribbean Forum on Adequate Housing<sup>14</sup>, held in May at Monterrey, Mexico. More than 500 people from the social, public and private sectors participated, representing 28 countries. The Forum sought to generate proposals for making cities inclusive, safe and sustainable that would influence the New Urban Agenda emerging from Habitat III.

At the end of an external evaluation, HIC-AL decided to reactivate personalized communication with numerous members that had not been active for several years. As part of a larger project that will include the entire region, meetings were held with organizations from Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay and it was suggested to establish a strategic planning workshop for the Southern Cone during the first months of 2016.

On the national level, among other activities, HIC-AL participated in the creation of the Global Platform for the Right to the City and Land Defense in coordination with HIC members in Mexico, among other actors. The goal was to elevate the national debate on various issues to prepare for Habitat III and beyond. HIC-AL participated on the official Preparatory Committee for Habitat III and continued to support various advocacy groups that claim the human rights to adequate housing, water and sanitation, and the right to the city.

On the international level, the UN Special Rapporteurs collaborated with HIC-AL on the human right to adequate housing and the human right to water and sanitation. Also, HIC-AL actively collaboration in the convergence of inhabitants within the World Social Forum at Tunis, where it was proposed to organize a social forum alternative to Habitat III, for which HIC-AL officers traveled to Quito, Ecuador.

Participants of the first module of the regional school of cooperatives training in Mexico.

The social function of land at the heart of the debate: HIC-Latin America Working Group on Social Production of Habitat.

Few concepts have marked the history and practice of HIC organizations as much as the Social Production of Habitat (SPH). Apart from being at the center of collective declarations such as From Marginalization to Citizenship (De la marginación a la ciudadanía, 2004) or The Possible Way (El Camino possible, 2011), this concept has been one of the cohesive elements of our Coalition at various stages. Now, it is being updated.

From 3 to 5 September 2015, HIC-LA coordinated the First Meeting of the Latin American Working Group on Social Production of Habitat, with the participation of social movements and organizations of civil society, HIC members and social base from 10 countries in the region.

It would be impossible to detail here the activities of each of the 26 participant organizations that are otherwise found in a report on https://produccionsocialhabitat.wordpress.com together with the entire minutes of the meeting. However, it is relevant to stress convergent points in the debate of the land and collective property.

For the spokespersons of Federación Uruguaya de Cooperativas de Vivienda por Ayuda Mutua (FUCVAM) along with Coordinadora Centroamericana Autogestionaria para la Vivienda Solidaria (COCEAVIS) and Pioneros de Venezuela, SPH cannot transform lives while promoting individual solutions. FUCVAM General Secretary Pablo Caballero pointed out that it is necessary to break away from private property and generate new forms of social tenure of the land, as that achieved by cooperatives.

Nevertheless, Anelise Meléndez of Red Habitat Bolivia reminded that most of the Latin American social producers live in neighborhoods where the priority is given to family use of the land. Therefore, it is necessary to take the reality into account and appreciate the value of the work done by those who want to lead improvement processes. In this sense, Álvaro Aguilar of the Unión de Cooperativas Tosepan added that it is impossible to promote a concentrated model of housing in the rural region of Mexico where his organization operates. The indigenous people living in the mountains are scattered on their own farming plots in order to protect their property, particularly their lands, which historically has been grabbed. This is why Tosepan does not promote collective housing property, despite the people's cooperative experiences in agriculture and livestock production and marketing.

Gustavo González, "We Effect" housing program coordinator in Latin America stated that it is not possible to speak of private property in a humanist perspective. However, knowing the existing discrepancies even within some experiences that claim collective property, he agreed that "the only guaranty to generate transformative processes is the ideological development of people and their organization".

Enrique Ortíz of HIC-Latin America summarized the different proposals through a simple question that he himself answered: What is harming the system? It is harmed when we struggle against individual property through our persistent pursuit of autonomy and development of comprehensive processes, our defense of common goods, our advocacy, not only for the human right to housing, but also for the right to water. In conclusion, the transforming projects are those that challenge the current order of civilization that leads humanity to the abyss.

HIC in South Asia

In 2015, Housing and Land Rights Network, Habitat International Coalition - South Asia (HLRN-SA) worked and intervened at multiple levels-local, state. national. and international-to positively influence law and policy; to advocate for improved living conditions; and, to monitor realization of the human rights to adequate housing and land for the most marginalized. HLRN-SA's work issues forced covered of evictions. displacement. inadequate resettlement. homelessness, disasters, land rights, women's rights, and conflict.

HLRN–SA initiated a three-city housing rights fellowship with the objective of developing the capacity of residents of low income settlements to lead their own struggles and to work for the realization of housing and related human rights. HLRN–SA established a 'housing and land rights resource centre' with a library in its office, and launched a new website (www.hlrn.org.in).

HLRN–SA used its 'Eviction Impact Assessment (EvIA) Tool' —the only human rights-based mechanism for determining material and non-material losses suffered during a forced eviction— in several sites and presented the findings to courts and other agencies with the aim of providing restitution, including adequate compensation, to affected persons.

Over the past year, HLRN-SA, as founder and secretariat of the Delhi Housing Rights Task Force (DHRTF) -a multi-sectoral body working to promote the human right to adequate housing- engaged with the Delhi government and its agencies on issues related to forced evictions, displacement, and failed resettlement. HLRN-SA actively works for the human rights of homeless citizens through the Urban Rights Forum: With the Homeless HLRN-SA was (SAM:BKS), which instrumental in creating in 2008, and by supporting three homeless persons. HLRN-SA was successful in gaining entitlements for the homeless, including voter cards and food subsidy cards, as well as in preventing several evictions in Delhi through strategic advocacy efforts. It also engaged with National Human Rights Institutions and assisted with legal interventions for communities who suffered forced evictions.

HLRN–SA systematically tracks forced evictions in India and is the only organization collecting this data at the national level. The information is used to generate public awareness and to influence policy interventions.

HLRN–SA engaged in human rights education, participated in workshops, seminars, and conferences, and also worked on several research projects and publications, including popular education resources, during 2015. HLRN–SA presented, to the UN Human Rights Council, a mid-term assessment of India's implementation of relevant recommendations from its second Universal Periodic Review in 2012. Since the process of preparing India's official report for Habitat III did not involve civil society, HLRN-SA took the lead on writing a parallel report on housing and land rights. The executive director wrote a chapter on 'Women's Rights to Adequate Housing and Land in Urban India' for the 'State of the Urban Poor Report 2015' of the Ministry of Housing and Urban Poverty Alleviation.

At the international level, HLRN–SA engaged with the Habitat III process, UN mechanisms, and the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing.

HIC in Middle East and North Africa

The year 2015 was eventful for HIC-HLRN in fulfilling its consistent role of supporting members in reporting on housing and land rights issues to the UN Human Rights System, coordinating civil society engagement in regional and global policy processes and publishing useful information for specialized public concerned with housing and land rights both within the region and internationally. The Network and its officers also undertook country-specific initiatives and projects variously to defend and restore housing and land rights across the Middle East and North Africa.

HLRN in the UN Human Rights System: The year saw HLRN's collaboration with partners in the Arab NGO Network for Development in contributing to the second review of the State of Lebanon before the UN Human Rights Council's Universal Periodic Review (UPR) mechanism. HLRN's contributions to the joint stakeholder submission<sup>18</sup> focused on housing and land rights conditions, as well as the human rights consequences of water-sector privatization in Lebanon since 2012. HLRN also worked with Sudanese members to produce a parallel report<sup>19</sup> for the first review of the Republic of Sudan before Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights in 15 years. This was HLRN's first joint effort with its partners Nuba Mountains International Association, the Sudanese Human Rights Monitor and the Social Peace Initiative for Darfur.

Land Reparations and Transitional Justice in Yemen: With cautious optimism, HLRN resumed work on the long-stalled research project on land reparations as an element of transitional justice in Yemen. HLRN negotiated a no-cost extension to the support from the United States Institute of Peace for the project, enabling the field research on quantification of losses, costs and damages to continue in a new frame of reference that included longstanding cases of dispossession along with consideration of the recent events of Yemen's ongoing civil war. The project applies the Matrix/Eviction HLRN Loss Impact Assessment (EvIA) tool for the first time scaling-up to meet the needs of a transitionaljustice process. Despite drawbacks in the peace process, the countries transitional justice mechanisms remain in place to remedy the violations and damage of the past that led to the uprising of 2011.

Preparing for Habitat III: With a view to the future, HIC-HLRN maximized its efforts to provide guidance for civil society partners seeking engagement in the Habitat III process. In 2015, that effort involved HLRN service members and civic partners with methods and tools for eventual parallel reporting to compensate for the many omissions in the UN-Habitat reporting guidance, the regional reporting from the Arab states and West Asia. This involved HLRN officers Ahmed Mansour and Joseph Schechla presenting findings in the Expert Group Meetings on the regional Habitat III reports for both MENA (January (February 2016) and Africa 2016), respectively, as well as developing and distributing reporting tools and methods  $(\underline{English}^{20} \quad \underline{Arabic}^{21} \text{ and } \underline{Spanish}^{22})$  for (English 20 members across the region.

HIC-HLRN participated in the preparations and events of the Egyptian Urban Forum that was held in Cairo, June 2015. HLRN reminded participants of essential Habitat II pillars and commitments: (1) balanced rural and urban development, (2) good governance and (3) the full realization of human rights, in particular, the human right to adequate housing. In the context of concurrent activities, HIC-HLRN issued several analytical and evaluative documents on the policy and issue papers, and the national reporting of Habitat III, with a focus on MENA priorities.

Also, HIC-HLRN helped Egyptian members and other CSOs to "think outside the box" and innovated civic-engagement tools in the Habitat III process with a view toward 2016. In the process, ten Egyptian organizations met in Cairo to consider their own reporting contributions. Their initiative began with HLRN providing a review of the Habitat processes since 1976 and the standing commitments under Habitat II. HLRN shared its adaptation of the UN-Habitat's reporting guidelines, in order to be compatible with, and parallel to the presumed system-wide standard. The effort culminated with a civil society-organized panel within the December 2015 Arab Ministerial Forum for Housing and Urban Development (AMFHUD), also held in Cairo, with HLRN focusing on evaluative reporting methods and partners 10 Tooba and Takween presenting findings on housing policy and spatial justice in Egypt.

UN General Assembly Committee on the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People (CEIRPP):HIC-HLRN participated in the International Meeting on the Question of Palestine on 7–8 September 2015, at Brussels, which convened under the theme "Israeli Settlements as an Obstacles to Peace: possible ways forward." The conference addressed a particular set of inalienable rights and a particular subset of the Palestinian the UN's "permanent people under responsibility." On 9 September, CEIRPP hosted "Consultations of the Committee Delegation with civil society organizations active on the question of Palestine," with Joseph Schechla (HIC-HLRN) moderating the discussion. The most important recommendation by CSOs was to reconstitute the Committee against Apartheid in the UNGA, building the legal findings in UN treaty bodies to inform and advance discourse in UN political bodies and guide their functions, and dedicating 2017 to commemoration of the multiple anniversaries <sup>23</sup> coinciding. The international CSO meeting was followed by a set of proposals to CEIRPP for developing CEIRPP as the only UN mechanism dealing with the Palestinian people as a whole, and providing the needed leadership in the General Assembly to resolve the exceptionalism that afflict the Question of Palestine and its dispersed and dispossessed people.

Rights to Adequate Housing and Land in Palestine: As HIC-HLRN was a historic factor in the founding of Palestine's first housing rights movement, HIC-HLRN participated in the second meeting on Palestinian right in housing, in Ramallah, held by HIC-HLRN member, Land Research Center, in May 2015. The conference on "The Palestinian Right to Housing and Land: Living with Dignity and the Right to Remain" reviewed the practices of the Israeli occupation against the Palestinian rights in housing and access to land and sought to renew the movement in the West Bank and Jerusalem. HIC-HLRN representative Joseph the Schechla stressed importance of international parties and UN members states to hold the Israeli occupying authorities liable for the violations against the housing, and residency and refugee rights of Palestinian people.

HIC-HLRN also joined organizers Birzeit Institute of Law. Universitv Trans-Arab Research Institute, Arab Center for Applied Social Research, Civic Coalition for Palestinian Residency Rights in Jerusalem, Stop the Wall, and the Arab Studies Institute at George Mason University in an innovative conference in Jerusalem, Birzeit and Nazareth. Under the "Alternative Strategies for Realizing title. Justice in Palestine," the December 2015 gathering sought to exchange new and prospective approaches to implementing international law in Palestine. HIC-HLRN's contributions included introduction of the right to the city claim in Jerusalem, while developing the practical solidarity of other cities to exercise their extraterritorial human rights obligations not to recognize or transact with parties engaged in the illegal situation.

The deliberative processes followed networking events at the World Social Forum (March 2015) in which HIC-HLRN joined fellow organizers, Stop the Wall Campaign, European Coordination of Committees and Associations for Palestine. and the Andalusian Municipalities' Foundation for International Solidarity (FAMSI) to conduct a workshop for CSOs and social movements on engagement with local governments to support Palestinian rights. The workshop covered common-butdifferentiated human rights obligations of states and local government, including the legal obligations to take effective measures to remedy an illegal situation under international law. This included practical examples of cities and local government implementing the non-recognition principle of and noncooperation with parties that violate human rights in Palestine. HIC-HLRN presented the international law obligations of local authorities to refrain from contracting and procurement arrangements with parties that cooperate with illegal situation such as Israel's colonization and construction of the Wall in Palestine. This side event was a follow-up to the International Conference of Governments and Civil Society Organizations in Support of Palestinian Rights, held in 2014, at Seville, Andalucia (Spain). There, civil society and local governments presented a platform for cooperation in the form of the "Olive Declaration<sup>24</sup>," calling upon local authorities to promote cooperation with Palestine. in general, and Palestinian municipalities and communities, in particular, through the exercise of their obligations, as part of territorial states, under binding international human rights law and other peremptory norms.

Housing and Land Rights Network (HIC-HLRN)

For HIC-HLRN in various issues and global processes like, Habitat III, COP21, food security and nutrition in protracted crises, the global initiative of land and water convergence, resuming implementation on land reparations as an element of transitional justice in Yemen, as well as, joint comprehensive parallel report for the second review of State of Lebanon before the UN Human Rights Council's Universal Periodic Review (UPR) mechanism, and Sudan before the treaty body of Economic, Social and Cultural rights.

Preparing to Habitat III process: HIC-HLRN maximized its efforts to guide and put the process of Habitat III on the right track that respects and considers the human rights norms and corresponding obligations comprising the normative framework. HIC has been delivering a consistent message of issues and recommendations for the process and content of the "New Habitat Agenda." During the second Preparatory Committee (PrepCom2) for Habitat III held in Nairobi in April 2015, HIC addressed the essential procedural and substantive issues in a series of side events, summarizing them in the Coalition's message to the plenary. HIC-HLRN asserted that Habitat III must be at least as inclusive as Habitat II; maintain and build on the Habitat Agenda, and not produce a narrow "urban agenda"; and Human rights and good governance must continue to anchor and guide global human settlement policy and commitments.

Paris Agreement (COP21): HIC-HLRN participated in the conference through the Global Convergence of Land and Water Struggles, which HIC-HLRN has joined in October 2014. The Global Convergence addressed COP21 about the most-immediate effects of the false solutions to the current man-made climate crisis is people's loss of access to land and water, the very natural resources upon which people depend for their livelihoods and food sovereignty, and how the privatization and financialization of nature evicts and dispossess masses of people, deprived of access to land and water in rural and urban settings, then call the affected communities to "be resilient". The Global Convergence on Land and Water Struggles proposes to articulate and further develop real solutions through give the platform to frontline communities and ensuring space for interaction with the audience.

World Habitat Day Report 2015: HIC-HLRN issued its regular report on World Habitat Day Report based on analysis from its Violation Database. In 2015, the report was titled "The Struggle over Land," presenting finding from the past four years of recorded violations affecting land tenure of the rural and urban poor. The report urged that the evidence-based pattern of abuses should inform priority setting for needed policy course corrections sought in this era of new global development policies. The HIC-HLRN report on World Habitat Day keeps each region under regular review, while anticipating the priorities and devilish details in monitoring the new SDGs and the norm setting to come out of Habitat III.

The UN Committee on World Food Security (CFS); Within HIC's role in the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation's Rome-based International Planning Committee of civil society partners, HLRN addresses the theme of urban food security and the constituency of urban food insecure. HIC-HLRN the participated in the 42nd session of the CFS (October 2015) with the outcomes reflecting HLRN priorities to develop rights-based operational norms on water-sector governance and to develop the constituency of landless persons.

With HIC's Davinder Lamba (Mazingira Institute, Kenya) and Emily Mattheisen (HLRN Program Officer, Egypt) completing their terms in the governing Coordination Committee of Civil Society Mechanism for the Committee on World Food Security (CFS), they have turned over responsibilities for the period October 2015 – October 2017 to two HIC members: Christiane Costa (PÓLIS, Brazil) and Kuria Gathuru (Kenya Green Towns Partnership Association). The Landless People's constituency is now represented by Sylvia Mallari (Asia Peasants Coalition, Philippines) and Jamal al-Talab, director of HIC-HLRN member Land Research Center (Palestine).

Human Rights and Local Government: Several opportunities and aspects of the HLRN program converged on the subject of local government in 2015. Significant were HLRN contributions to the UN Human Rights Council's Advisory Committee study on "The role of local government in the promotion and protection of human rights" 25 which also focused on the "right to the city" and the experience of human rights cities. HLRN contributed to the HIC-PÓLIS co-managed Global Platform on the Right to the City (GPR2C) through its working groups on advocacy, research and training with several knowledge products in 2015, including a glossary of terms<sup>26</sup> related to right to the city (R2C) and developed the thesis of the extraterritorial human rights obligations of local government.

Responding to the Need for Evaluative Reporting for Habitat III

For 40 years, the progressive spirit and achievements of two generations of Habitat Agendas have aimed to improve the living conditions of human settlements in all habitats of the planet. However, it remains difficult to tell how and to which degree the world has reached that objective without evaluating those outcomes. The Habitat Agenda's implementation commitments never have been properly monitored or evaluated. As we move toward the putative renewal of that global agenda in 2016, a further iteration also cannot instil confidence as meeting current priorities and expectations without first reviewing the implementation of foregoing Habitat II commitments.

In order for the Habitat III processes and the stakeholders to maintain some measure of integrity and coherence with the bi-decennial policy, both the processes and contents of Habitat III preparations, including—and especially—national, regional and global Habitat III reports should reflect an evaluation of performance of those commitments and the instructive lessons learnt. However, since 1996, UN Habitat programs, related forums or annual reports have not aligned with, related to, or recalled Habitat II commitments. That is despite Istanbul+5 explicitly reaffirming them and assigning monitoring-and-evaluation responsibility to UN Habitat through a Habitat Agenda Task Manager System.

Periodic conferences, including World Urban Forums, have showcased existing practice and political discourse, but have never sought to promote, support or assess implementation of the Habitat II commitments. The UN development system concentrated more on the MDGs, but those minimum development goals lacked alignment with commitments of Habitat II. The current Habitat III process should have begun with a conscientious review of the Habitat Agenda's relevance, coherence, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainable outcomes, as HIC has advocated since 2013.

The 2014 Office of Internal Oversight Services evaluation of UN Habitat also omitted a review of the UN specialized organization's implementation, monitoring or stewardship role vis-à-vis the Habitat II Agenda, or its functions related to the triple UN Charter-based purposes (i.e., forward development, peace and security and human rights). Amid some excellent work in the field, UN-Habitat is otherwise identified with the Washington Consensus among IFIs, quite distinctly from other UN Charter-based specialized organizations, which struggle to remedy the negative consequences of economic globalization. The diverse global crises of recent years should have informed UN-Habitat leadership's approach to Habitat III as an opportunity to address some of the worst forms of global policy and practice affecting human habitat. Habitat II governmental Partners already had committed to maintain a just macroeconomic order, protect the environment, ensure gender equality, prevent and remedy forced evictions, and fully and progressively realize the human right to adequate housing in the form of the Habitat Agenda at Habitat II.

In light of these and other repeated commitments of states and governments in the Habitat Agenda of 1996, Habitat International Coalition and its Housing and Land Rights Network (HIC-HLRN) have proffered methods, tools, models and capacity development on how to achieve the indispensable evaluation of Habitat II commitments and apply its lessons to Habitat III.

A Tool for Evaluative Habitat III Reporting

HIC-HLRN has promoted an alternative approach of reporting processes for two main purposes: (1) to enable a critical analysis of past performance of Habitat II by country and region as a knowledge base for deliberation and (2) to reconsider and/or improve upon the principled Habitat II commitments for the coming period 2017–36. The resulting evaluation tool seeks to serve evaluative Habitat III reporting, the Policy Units and ensuing negotiations to fill gaps, correct foregone assumptions and address those issues that have emerged in greater relief since the last Habitat Agenda.

This Tool for Evaluative Habitat III Reporting creates an opportunity for the evaluator to learn about the applicable human rights norms and obligations and where to find them in the various sources of international law. Reviewing the Habitat II commitments against the states' human rights obligations calls for evaluation of efforts to ensure security of tenure, including land/agrarian reform efforts undertaken such that promote the social function of land/property and integrate diverse tenure arrangements within the state's land administration. Also, this approach calls for the needed review of the prohibited practice of forced eviction within the country, as most states already are required to report on five-year cycles under their prior human rights treaty obligations.

Column 1	Column 2	Column 3
I. Demographic Issues and Challenges for a New Habitat Agenda Specific questions:	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations
II. Planning Specific questions:	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations
III. Environment and Urbanization Specific questions:	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations
IV. Governance and Administration Specific questions:	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations
V. Urban Economy Specific questions:	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations
VI. Housing and Basic Services	Related Habitat II commitments	Sources & standards of corresponding human rights state obligations

The HLRN Habitat III reporting tool facilitates this inquiry in the form of a customized Excel file containing three columns, beginning with the set of six broad themes and corresponding questions from the UN-Habitat reporting guidelines, paralleled by two columns of pre-existing reporting criteria: Column 2 contains the corresponding Habitat II commitments, summarizing their content and citing the paragraphs where they are located in the Habitat Agenda. Column 3 contains the state's human rights obligations with their citations as they relate to each of the cited Habitat II commitments and, correspondingly, to the issues and questions posed in the UN-Habitat-proffered guideline. The tool is organized as follows:

In addition to the specific questions that the UN Habitat reporting guidelines posed under each of the headings, the HIC-HLRN method also introduces some salient issues that were omitted from the "standard" guidelines, but arise from explicit Habitat II commitments, or hold particular relevance in the present generation of policy formulation, such as:

- Describe the integrated planning provisions for balanced rural and urban development, particularly considering current and anticipated patterns of housing, labour, energy, water, transport, and developing and sustaining city-region food systems.
- What is the prospectus of the population, ethnic, religious, cultural, language, income and other diversity questions that will affect human settlement development for the coming bi-decennial, including any forms of discrimination, polarization or social integration dynamics?
- What is to be done to ensure the optimum degree of capacity and effective stakeholder participation in the various spheres of planning?
- What provisions exist to support local economic development, including the social production of cities/human settlements?
- How has the state aligned the urban and rural economy with national development policy?
- What measures have been taken to realize resource sharing and social function of the economy, including via land-value sharing, plusvalía, etc.?
- Describe any emerging or anticipated priorities and challenges in ensure equitable economic performance of the cities/human settlements in your country.

Applying the tool is an exercise in two parts: An "Evaluation" part and a "Looking Forward" prospectus. The "Evaluation" part integrates the Habitat II Agenda commitments with the actual organization of the selective criteria of UN Habitat-proffered national reporting guidelines. It calls for a thoughtful review of what standing Habitat II commitments were fulfilled by central government, local authorities and governments (including major cities) and other subnational governmental structures. It also calls for illustrations of efforts by Habitat Agenda Partners through a participatory evaluation effort, the findings of which should reveal the challenges experienced and lessons learnt through success or failure of those efforts.

The "Looking Forward" section aims to identify the needed elements of the New Habitat Agenda that reflect the priority commitments of various spheres of government to achieve the bundle of habitat rights guaranteed by, and binding upon states, as well as recognize emerging rights (e.g., energy, land, transport, a collective right to the city, etc.) as well as techniques and concepts further developed in theory and practice since Habitat II, such as social production of habitat, the social function of land an property, regulation of real-estate markets, integrated systems of diverse tenure arrangements and land adjustments, as well as the binding and declaratory legal norms developed since 1996.

Many of these Habitat Agenda essentials remain neglected in the draft Habitat III outcome document and negotiations.

أحوال الأرض/LandTimes

HIC-HLRN issued two issues of LandTimes/حوال الأرض, in June and October 2015, presenting news from the Network, as well as regional and international processes. The LandTimes/ أحوال "Terminology Corner" regularly covers new terms that have emerged from these processes, reflecting contemporary practice and thinking. Meanwhile, others are simply old and familiar terms interpreted in a new context. This feature often reflects the direct engagement of civil society in contentious standard-setting processes. The June issue featured and critically reviewed the elements of "consent" and explored the "obligations of local authorities." While presenting examples on agroecology, the LandTimes/حوال الأرض/ linked the concept to the previously covered concepts of "food security" and "food sovereignty."

The October issue came under the editorial theme of "Evaluation Criteria" reflecting HLRN's contemporary focus on Habitat II commitments in light of the discontinuity of the Habitat III process. The editorial asserted that an evaluation of the relevance, coherence, effectiveness, efficiency, impact and sustainability of implementing the Habitat II Agenda shared over the past 20 years would form a welcome basis for heading forward with new commitments. That issue also covered the continuing review of World Bank safeguard policies affecting land in development.

In 2015, LandTimes/أحوال الأرض also carried reports from the field from contributors in Algeria, Egypt, Palestine, and Western Sahara. HLRN publishes Land Times/حوالالأرض/ in both Arabic and English on the HLRN (www.hlrn.org) and HIC-MENA (www.hic-mena.org) websites, as well as on Landpedia (http://landpedia.org/land/index.php?title=Main_Page) the web-based resource on regional land struggles.

The Land and Its People

The Land and Its People

The MENA regional program produced the new publication The Land and Its People: Civil Society Voices Address the Crisis over Natural Resources in the Middle East/North Africa in March 2015. This English-language volume follows and updates the Arabiclanguage compilation of participants' contributions from four rounds of the MENA Land Forum, 2009–2013. It embodies the diagnostic presentations and papers for the wider international public. The volume's 36 analytical articles are organized according to 10 timely themes: exploring tenure rights; water scarcity; gender, the right to the city; corruption; indigenous peoples; conflict, occupation and war; globalization; land and revolution; and land in constitution and policy reform.

Together, these chapters provide a uniquely informative resource reflecting the critical perspectives from a variety of disciplines in a region rarely covered from the perspective of its peoples' connection to the land.

During 2015, HIC's General Secretariat (HIC-GS) mainly focused on the coordination with all HIC's policy and operational structures, (HIC-LA, HIC-HLRN-SA, HIC-MENA, HIC-HLRN, HIC-Presidency as well as with the African Focal Points (Mazingira Institute and Bethesda) to foster the participation of HIC's members, friends and allies in three main themes/actions:

• Habitat III (HIII)<sup>29</sup>

• The Right to the City (R2C), the Global Platform for the Right to the City (GPR2C) and the implementation of the "R2C for all" project<sup>30</sup>; and

• The Social Production of Habitat (SPH)<sup>31</sup>.

The coordination for the Habitat III process, the implementation of the project "R2C for all" as well as the work on the SPH globally and regionally (LA) were of particular relevance this year on the occasion of the World Social Forum in Tunis (March 2015) and HIC's internal and global meetings, such as the General Assembly and Board Meetings. It is important to mention as well other normal global proceedings such as the elections of HIC President, the coordination with members participation and the of HIC-GS's representatives in a high number of events and forums throughout the year. Besides this, the preparations for HIC's activities and global meetings in Quito in October 2016 involved much coordination work and meetings to advance logistical issues with members and local partners. These events will culminate much of the collective work throughout 2015, including expert and stakeholder inputs to the processes and substance of Habitat III.

Thus, the overarching objective of HIC-GS during 2015 has been a contribution to coordinated global efforts from and to civil society for the recognition, defense and full implementation of the right to habitat with social justice, especially in favor of the demands of the poorest and most vulnerable social sectors in every region. This was achieved with a consistent global coordination and communication strategy, to enhance the advocacy capacities and outcomes of the Coalition in like-minded support of communities. social movements and organizations' housing processes, and to improve land and housing policies and their implementation at the local, national, regional and global levels.

Planning 2016 and beyond

During 2015, the General Secretariat had the opportunity to engage with more members, friends and allies and work together to address international processes and conferences such as Habitat III and the Global Platform for the Right to the City. A stronger coordination for these processes ensures that members actively engage in the defense, promotion and realization of human rights related to habitat in both rural and urban areas. The opportunity also allows to engage with more members, friends and allies in the meetings on the Right to the City and the Social Production of Habitat in Asia and Europe and on Habitat III at the global level (2015-2016). The Habitat III conference to be held in Quito will be a great opportunity to work together with members and for networking opportunities with allies, hence the importance of the coordination for this event during 2015.

In this regard, it is important to plan accordingly the future strategy of Habitat International Coalition as a key actor and reference point for monitoring and evaluating the process, content and implementation of the new agenda that will emerge from Habitat III, without forgetting and improving upon the commitments made at Habitat II 20 years ago.

Main activities

Hereunder a non-exhaustive list of activities/actions in which HIC-GS has participated during 2015:

(1) Participation in the "Primer Foro Ciudadano Hacia Hábitat III", (Santiago, January 2015);

(2) Joint (No-Vox, IAI and HIC) Call to participate to the World Assembly of Inhabitants at the WSF2015 (February 2015);

(10) Organization and realization of an in person meeting on HIC's projects and networking activities with members, and visits to local communities, (Lima, October 2015);

(11) Logistic support and contact set to French HIC member Habitat en Movement to visit HIC members in Latin America for the collection of data for the HeM book on Social production and self-management of Habitat (2015);

(12) Coordination of IAI's Event in JNB during Africities (Johannesburg, November 2015);

(13) Coordination and logistics of GPR2C's event in Africa (Johannesburg, November 2015);

(14) Participation in the Funders' Forum on Sustainable Cities Annual Conference "Sustaining Movements for the Big Conversations" (New York, November 2015);

(15) Coordination and logistics of GPR2C's event in Indonesia (Surabaya, December 2015);

(16) Global Call for the conformation of Popular Committees toward Habitat III

(17) Declaration on the occasion of the Human Rights Day 2015 (December 2015).

Global Activities

HIC at the World Social Forum

The 13th World Social Forum (WSF)<sup>32</sup> was held in Tunis, Tunisia, from 24 to 28 March 2015. WSF 2015 occurred at a crucial time for social movements claiming for more justice, freedom and solidarity. The aims and guidelines chosen considered the political, social and economic changes in Maghreb-Mashreq and on the African Continent, as well as the worldwide ecological and economic crises.

HIC joined the democratic debate of ideas, exchange of experiences and strategy building against inequitable neoliberal policies and in defense of the commons. This was also the opportunity to show support for the Tunisian people after the Bardo terrorist attacks on 18 March. In this regard, HIC issued a Letter of Solidarity to the Tunisian people<sup>33</sup>. HIC, together with members and allies, organized and participated in several events:

1. Civil society's expectations and needs from the Habitat III process

2. Right to the City + Social Production of Habitat Platforms

3. How to implement the Right to the City to build democratic and sustainable cities

4. Land Forum Workshop:

5. Outcomes of MENA Land Forum 2009– 2014: A Small Farmer Network

6. Reclaiming the City, Reclaiming Local Food Systems

7. Local Authorities Supporting Palestine

8. Land and Natural Resources in Western Sahara

9. Coordination and participation in the World Assembly of Inhabitants

10. Participation in the World Social Forum International Council meetings

11. Democratizing Democracy and the Cities We Want

12. Social Ecology, Participatory Democracy & the Environmental Crisis

13. The World Social Forum and the Struggle Against Neoliberalism. Book Launch of Gustave Massiah's: 'The Strategy for the Alternative to Globalisation'

HIC also joined local visits with local organizations, including a site-visit to La Petite Sicile<sup>34</sup>, and invited others to join in the HIC-related events. HIC's General Assembly<sup>35</sup> meeting was held in Tunis on 23 March 2015 with the presence of 29 participants (14 women and 15 men), representing 20 organizations from 18 different countries and from all regions. There were 9 members with the right to vote physically present and the Assembly had 10 proxies. Globally. there were 106 organizations with the right to vote, so the GA did not reach the constitutionally required quorum (21 people). After Tunis, the GS organized an online voting process on the GA agenda open to all members with the right to vote. After the President's traditional welcome and the presentation of the 2014 report of the HIC Structures and Board members representatives, HIC members took the floor to share their work. All participants discussed HIC's strategies and activities in Tunis and the open debate centered on HIC achievements and challenges, with a focus on the right to the city, the social production of habitat and Habitat III. HIC member The Bartlett Development Planning Unit (DPU) presented the research "Habitat III National Reporting Processes: Locating the Right to the City and the Role of Civil Society.<sup>36</sup>" This was a brilliant example on how members engage in global processes with the support and collaboration of HIC's reference centers. HIC-HLRN presented the commitments of Habitat II supporting R2C and other human rights and structural reform urgencies as a basis for the Habitat III advocacy strategy, augmented with the emerging issues and concepts since 1996.

A global movement for the Right to the City

Global Platform for the Right to the City Plataforma Global por el Derecho a la Ciudad Plataforma Global pelo Direito à Cidade

The Global Platform for the Right to the City<sup>37</sup> (GPR2C), launched in 2014 by an initiative from HIC and the Polis Institute from Brazil, adoption seeks to promote the of commitments, policies, projects and actions by the United Nations system and national and local governments aiming at developing inclusive, safe, democratic and sustainable cities and human settlements. The constitution of the GPR2C was, at that time, considered extremely important for strengthening urban struggles for social justice and to enhance international mobilization to address the Agenda 2030 (SDGs) and the Third UN Conference on Housing and Sustainable Urban Development (Habitat III), taking advantage of global gatherings as the World Social and the World Urban Forums.

Among the GPR2C members and partners there are several international organizations such as Action Aid, Cities Alliance, the Committee on Social, Inclusion, Participatory Democracy and Human Rights of United Cities Local Governments and (UCLG), the Intercontinental Network for the Social and Solidarity Economy (RIPESS), the International Fund for the Development of the Cities (FMDV), the Latin American Faculty of Social Sciences, Habitat for Humanity, the Huairou Commission, the International Alliance of Inhabitants (IAI), Shack/Slum Dwellers International (SDI), Techo, Women in Cities International (WICI), Women in Informal Employment, Globalizing and Organizing (WIEGO), the Avina and the Ford Foundations; as well as several Brazilian organizations including the National Forum for Urban Reform (FNRU), the National Front of Mayors (FNP), the Association of Municipalities (ABM) and the Institute for Urbanistic Law (IBDU).

During 2015, the GPR2C has been very active in the process towards the Habitat III conference, both inside and outside the official channels and spaces. Among the most relevant activities, it is worth mentioning its engagement at the thematic preparatory events, like the ones on Metropolitan Areas October) (Montreal. Canada. and on Intermediary Cities (Cuenca. Ecuador. November), as well as the Urban Thinkers Campuses in Mexico, Spain and USA. Through a very intense coordination activity, GPR2C representatives managed to include relevant contents in key declarations and preparatory documents such as the Issue Papers. At the same time, many of its members were included as experts inside the Policy Units to work on recommendations dealing with some critical topics: right to the city and cities for all, gender equality, cultural diversity and social inclusion, urban land and housing national policies, local fiscal systems and inclusive economic strategies and informal workers.

In parallel, the GPR2C promoted its own regional meetings in Africa (Johannesburg, South Africa, November) and Asia (Surabaya, Indonesia, December)<sup>38</sup>, aiming at broadening the mobilization, debate and joint proposals towards a share agenda for the right to the city at local and national level. In that context, the participants requested the incorporation of an stronger territorial dimension and discussed the possibility of drafting an African Charter for the Right to the City, while in Asia they highlighted the need to engage rural communities and indigenous peoples in the debates, since most of the population in many countries of that region still live in rural areas.

Several networking and training activities were also organized in places like Brazil, Mexico, South Africa and Tunisia, bringing together social movements, civil society organizations, human rights activists, professionals, academics and public servants to exchange concrete challenges as well as tools and experiences that move towards the right to the city.

HIC's contribution to this process outlined the lessons and products to date, and linked the R2C strategic foundations and principles to Habitat II commitments and Habitat III processes and contents. The follow-up HIC technical assistance includes in developing CSO parallel reporting to Habitat III, and contributing to the Habitat III regional reports for MENA and for the Africa region. Both HIC General Secretariat and HIC President were involved in organizing these meetings, producing content materials, and providing logistical and communication support for the Global Platform for the Right to the City and its related activities.

At the same time, other regional and national meetings contributed to strengthening movements, forums and networks that are promoting local and national actions related to the Right to the City, such as the II Latin American and Caribbean Forum on Adequate Housing (Monterrey, Mexico, May) and the V World Forum of Human Rights Cities (Gwangju, South Korea, May), in which HIC representatives also took part.

At the occasion of the World Habitat Day (October) the GPR2C launched a strong call for the inclusion of the Right to the City as the cornerstone of the New Urban Agenda, demanding the UN and the national governments to ensure the meaningful participation of civil society organizations and local governments as key partner in the definition and implementation of the commitments that will be agreed upon in Quito on October 2016.

Habitat III Process

Habitat International Coalition (HIC) and its civil society members have expressed deep concerns and high expectations in this Habitat Conference since the very early stages of its preparation. HIC has called repeatedly for the integrity of the Habitat II (1996) commitments and modalities as we advance toward Habitat III while preserving three basic principles: (1) Upholding the Habitat II-established principle to be as inclusive as possible; (2) Maintaining the Habitat Agenda, not pursuing a narrower "urban agenda"; and (3) Ensuring that human rights and good governance approaches continue to anchor and guide global human settlement policy and corresponding commitments.

During the Second Preparatory Committee (Nairobi, April 2015) these basics principles were part of HIC's message, a message that was delivered in several initiatives, inside and outside the official session, to lobby for civil society (CS) and local government (LG)'s expectations and proposals for the New Habitat Agenda and Habitat III. This included the substantive CS and LG involvement and participation in the Habitat III process; The outcomes of the research "Habitat III National Reporting Processes: Locating the Right to the City and the Role of Civil Society"<sup>39</sup>; The status of the national and regional reports and the participation of CS and LG; and the outcomes of the latest events organized by the Global Platform for the Right to the City in São Paulo and Tunis. HIC advocated for Habitat III's process and contents to be grounded in (1) a faithful evaluation of commitments made at Habitat II; (2) a review of housing-rights and good-governance practices consistent with those essential aspects of the Habitat II promise; and (3) realistic preparation for the human settlement-development emerging challenges that light the way toward improving "balanced rural and urban development".

HIC Habitat III Working Group's main purpose has been to coordinate HIC's strategy toward Habitat III. This working group is formed by 40 HIC's members, friends and staff who actively participated in 4 online meetings during 2015. HIC's roadmap to Habitat III, Habitat III Basics<sup>40</sup>, relevant materials<sup>41</sup> and the minutes of the online meetings are hosted on HIC-HLRN<sup>42</sup> and HIC-GS<sup>43</sup> websites, as well as in a specific blog external to HIC's websites called HIC's Expectations for HIII<sup>44</sup>. One of the outputs of this WG was the above mentioned "Habitat III National Reporting research: Processes: Locating the Right to the City and the Role of Civil Society." HIC-GS has also supported the regional reports launched by The Bartlett Development Planning Unit (DPU) (United Kingdom) and the Universidad General Sarmiento (Argentina) in Africa and Latin America respectively.

Two online questionnaires on the Habitat III process were also launched in 2015: the first one <sup>45</sup> inquired members, friends and allies about the status of National Habitat Committees and National Reports for Habitat III in English, Spanish and French (January 2015) while the second one <sup>46</sup> had specific questions about Habitat III, HIC's 40th anniversary and the Global Platform for the Right to the City (September 2015).

The HIC-GS also formulated and submitted the project "Production et diffusion de documents d'analyse critique des processus Habitat de 1976 à 2016" to the Fondation pour le Progrès de l'Homme. The aim of the publication is to reflect on the performance and progress of the HIC's work with members, friends and allies. It will also serve to reflect on the past and present struggles, and to strengthen the human rights values, identity and future struggles of civil society seeking to influence the administration of equitable, sustainable and environmentally respectful human opportunities, settlements. with equal democracy and social justice for all.

HIC's Presidential Elections

During 2015, the Presidential election was successfully held. The members elected their President to the Board (period 2015-2019). The process started at the beginning of June and ended at the end of October. The Electoral Committee was set with 6 members (one woman and 5 men) from 6 countries of 4 regions, with the support of the GS Team: Mr. Mo Adam (Social Peace for Sudan-The Netherlands) as Coordinator and Mrs. Paola Bagnera (Vivienda Social y Ciudad–Argentina), Mr. Khadim Dahot (Sewa Development Trust Sindh–Pakistan), Mr. Esteban Torres (Somos Ecuador-Ecuador), Mr. Yves Joël Zoffoun (Bethesda–Benin), Mr. David Barrientos (Red Hábitat–Bolivia).

All communications regarding election process have been posted and sent in 4 languages: English, Spanish, French and Arabic. The means were the Blog for elections<sup>47</sup>, HIC News, emails, 3 mailing lists, Social Media and posts on the GS Website. The votes were sent exclusively by email to the EC mailbox.

Two persons were nominated: Mrs. Lorena Zárate of FOSOVI (Mexico), and Mr. Issa Samander of The Wall Committee/Popular Development Center (Palestine): Lorena Zárate's nomination was declared valid meanwhile Mr. Issa Samander's nomination failed to comply with the requirements of the HIC By-Law

The roster of voters was stating 51 members from the 6 regions from 24 countries. 24 votes issued from organizations of 16 countries from the 6 regions were received, from which 23 valid votes in favor of Lorena Zárate, 1 invalid vote and no blank vote. The 24 votes represent the participation of 47% of the eligible voting members, met the 10% quorum.

President elected: Lorena Zárate

At the date of Closure of Objection, no objection had been received.

World Habitat Day and Human Rights Day 2015

Within the framework of the World Habitat Day 2015<sup>48</sup> (WHD), a number of initiatives in different cities around the world were organized and shared on HIC's websites. On this occasion, HIC invited its members friends and allies (1) to launch or join popular committees<sup>49</sup> and the organization of national and regional parallel events in different countries and opened to the participation of everyone; (2) to draft National<sup>50</sup> and Regional<sup>51</sup> Parallel Reports, summarizing the analysis, demands, expectations and proposals from divers civil society actors, as well as evaluating Habitat II Agenda performance; and (3) to hold an Urban Social Forum parallel to Habitat III, an open and inclusive forum for discussion and coordination of struggles and experiences growing in all corners of the planet. This call for action was the continuation of the previous WHD's joint statement<sup>52</sup> signed by more than 100 organizations from over 30 countries on the preparations for the third United Nations Conference on Sustainable Housing and Urban Development (Habitat III).

December 2015 celebrated the Humans Right Day<sup>53</sup>, commemorating that 67 years ago at Paris, UN member states affirmed that "All human beings are born free and equal in dignity and rights." That 1st article of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) enshrined this fundamental human rights principle with seeming prescience of its contemporary relevance. In light of the various today currents and trends impeding implementation of that principle, as a coalition of civil actors around the globe, HIC reaffirmed that "recognition of the inherent dignity and of the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family is the foundation of freedom, justice and peace in the world". On Rights Day 2015, Habitat this Human International Coalition (HIC) echoed the call for "equal rights of men and women and... to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom." Likewise, HIC also sounded an alarm at the unrelenting pattern of housing and land rights violations that indicates rampant discrimination in every region, and the need to uphold the pre-emptive and remedial human rights approach in the Habitat III process and beyond.

During 2015, HIC General Assembly and Board approved the appointment of Ana Sugranyes as a member of the HIC Wisdom Keepers. The title of HIC Wisdom Keeper is bestowed by HIC Board on HIC members to signify that the recipient is a keeper of valuable knowledge. resulting from recipient's commitment to HIC over time, of its evolution and the strive for people-centered and development sustainable of human settlements. Thus, they confer the wisdom keepers the privilege to enlighten HIC, on making cities, towns and villages of the world, places to live in peace and dignity for all.

Ana Sugranyes has worked with HIC since the late-1980s, beginning with a four-year term on the HIC Board. Most recently, from 2003 to 2013, she served as the HIC General Secretary, coordinating the work of this global coalition. During the last 35 years, Ana has demonstrated a deep knowledge of housing and land human rights instruments and principles, an unique role as a leader and coordinator of diverse civil society organizations, an excellent negotiator with municipal, national and multilateral institutions and a strong personal commitment for the right of everyone to a secure place in which to live in peace and dignity.
